Determination Of A Solubility Product

Solubility equilibrium is a type of dynamic equilibrium that exists when a chemical compound in the solid state is in chemical equilibrium with a solution of that compound. The solid may dissolve unchanged, with dissociation or with chemical reaction with another constituent of the solvent, such as acid or alkali.

Solubility equilibrium - Wikipedia

Solubility is the property of a solid, liquid or gaseous chemical substance called solute to dissolve in a solid, liquid or gaseous solvent. The solubility of a substance fundamentally depends on the physical and chemical properties of the solute and solvent as well as on temperature, pressure and presence of other chemicals (including changes to the pH) of the solution.

Abstract. The solubility of all drug substances is normally determined during the preformulation stage, and it is crucial to know whether the determined values represent genuine equilibrium solubilities (i.e., thermodynamic values) or whether they represent the values associated with a metastable condition (i.e., kinetic values).

The IR spectra of degraded chitosan product CS3 and the half N-acetylated product HCS1 were shown in Fig. 1. The absorption bands at 1650 and 1600  $\text{cm}^{-1}$  in CS3 were, respectively, referenced as amide I band and N-H bending mode of  $\text{-NH}_2$  (Dong, Xu, & Wang, 2001). HCS1 had the lower relative absorption intensity of  $\text{-NH}_2$ , and higher absorption intensity of amide III band at 1316  $\text{cm}^{-1}$  ...

The solubility of Vortioxetine hydrobromide (VORH) in three binary solvent mixtures of butanone + ethanol, butanone + n-propanol, and butanone + n-butanol was determined by the gravimetric method at temperatures ranging from (283.15 to 318.15) K. Surprisingly, the solubility displays a maximum at around 0.3 mol fraction of butanone in all three binary mixed solvents and this solvent ...
