FORCES . A force is any push or pull that causes an object to move, stop, or change speed or direction.; The greater the force, the greater the change in motion will be. The more massive an object, the less effect a given force will have on the object.; Unless acted on by a force, objects in motion tend to stay in motion and objects at rest remain at rest.

You guys are talking about this optimization like it's unreadable or somehow less powerful or something, that's ridiculous. If all you need is a collection, this works great and is the preferred approach, you do not sacrifice any readability and it is infinitely faster (in the few edge cases where that might matter).

If we could shrink ourselves down to the size of a 'matter particle', and we could look around inside a liquid, what would we see? We would see that the particles in the liquid are also very close together. Like solids, liquids cannot be compressed either.. Unlike solids, the particles in a liquid do not have fixed positions. They are always moving around.
