Marxian economics, or the Marxian school of economics, is a heterodox school of economic thought. Its foundations can be traced back to the critique of classical political economy in the research by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels. Marxian economics comprises several different theories and includes multiple schools of thought, which are sometimes opposed to each other, and in many cases Marxian ...

There is geographic variation in damages. Economic losses tend to be higher in developed countries, but as a proportion of GDP, these losses can often be lower (Anderson, 1990, Mitchell and Thomas, 2001). When looking simply at inflation-adjusted damage estimates of disasters over the past several decades, the greatest concentration in losses (roughly 36% of the total) appears in the United ...
