Ever notice that Jews don't traditionally wish each other "happy new year"? Instead we say the Hebrew phrase "shanah tovah" which — in spite of the mistaken translation that appears on almost all greeting cards — has no connection at all to the expression "have a happy new year." Shanah tovah conveys the hope for a good year rather than a happy one.

Religious people often complain that we grace preachers don't emphasize repentance sufficiently. It's true. I hardly emphasize it at all. But then neither did the Apostle John. Here's something that will fry your mind: Repentance is one of the most important things you'll ever do but John never mentions the word. Not once. Not in...

Stonehenge, an ancient monument that attracts millions of tourists a year holds many secrets. One of the lesser known is that the standing stones we see today, in fact date back less than 50 years, as a result of numerous restorations that have taken place for over 100 years. According to what we have known...

My worst experiences in the professional world all share one thing in common: I reported to a female boss. Talk to most guys (and, frankly, normal women) and they will say the same thing—working for a female boss, or in an environment composed of mostly women, is a descent into an endless abyss of back-biting, passive-aggressiveness, lies, envy, intrigue, subterfuge, manipulation, and drama.
