Most people instinctively avoid conflict, but as Margaret Heffernan shows us, good disagreement is central to progress. She illustrates (sometimes counterintuitively) how the best partners aren't echo chambers -- and how great research teams, relationships and businesses allow people to deeply disagree.

Dear precious ladies, I am a pastors' wife, married for 32 years, and for about 25 years, have felt the pain of doing all that one can to keep a marriage afloat for God's glory and for your family's sake. The church and the pulpit became my husband's first love and priority. It wasn't always that way but somehow pride and arrogance crept into our family life.

What is the greatest threat to humanity? We are, of course....and our technology. Like a dangerous weapon in the hands of a child, technology has overtaken our capacity to control potential consequences. Oxford University's Future of Humanity Institute, led by director Nick Bostrom, says we have entered this new kind of technological era that we have no track record of surviving.
