"Concrete" by Thomas Bernhard

Concrete (Beton, 1982) is a novel by Austrian writer Thomas Bernhard. Like many of Bernhard's books, it is written in the form of a monologue--essentially a rant lasting for 150 pages with no chapter breaks or even separate paragraphs--by Rudolf, a Viennese amateur musicologist and convalescent.

Concrete (novel) - Wikipedia

In both the characters of himself, Thomas Bernhard, in Wittgenstein's Nephew, and of Rudolph in Concrete, the main characters live lives centered heavily INSIDE themselves, about themselves. Most people whom I've encountered seem to live mainly outside themselves in the various life projects they've assumed -- the job they have, their family ...
