Animal magnetism, also known as mesmerism, was the name given by German doctor Franz Mesmer in the 18th century to what he believed to be an invisible natural force (Lebensmagnetismus) possessed by all living things, including humans, animals, and vegetables. He believed that the force could have physical effects, including healing, and he tried persistently but without success to achieve ...

1. Introduction1.1. Thermal environments and human performance. The notion of climatic influences over human affairs has a very long history, probably dating back to the Hippocratic writings on "Airs, Waters and Places" circa 400 BCE (, p.4), but its fullest expression had to wait until the so-called climatic determinists of the early Twentieth Century.

Essentially a 24-hour juice fast, the Moon Diet is a trend which involves the use of a lunar calendar. By aligning the day of the new moon with an absence of solid foods and following a few other suggestions during each of the lunar cycles, the moon diet is believed to boost an individual's ability to quickly lose weight.
