Ernest Hemingway Four Novels Barnes

Ernest Miller Hemingway (July 21, 1899 – July 2, 1961) was an American journalist, novelist, short-story writer, and noted sportsman. His economical and understated style—which he termed the iceberg theory—had a strong influence on 20th-century fiction, while his adventurous lifestyle and his public image brought him admiration from later generations.

Manolin. Manolin is present only in the beginning and at the end of The Old Man and the Sea, but his presence is important because Manolin's devotion to Santiago highlights Santiago's value as a person and as a fisherman. Manolin demonstrates his love for Santiago openly. He makes sure that the old man has food, blankets, and can rest without being bothered.

Yesterday marked a century since the guns finally fell silent on the Western Front. For over four years "the war to end all wars" turned Europe into a trench-scarred theater of bloodshed, directly claiming the lives of nine million soldiers and seven million civilians, and altering the world's perception of warfare and "noble sacrifice" forever.
