Phenomenology (from Greek phainómenon "that which appears" and lógos "study") is the philosophical study of the structures of experience and consciousness. As a philosophical movement it was founded in the early years of the 20th century by Edmund Husserl and was later expanded upon by a circle of his followers at the universities of Göttingen and Munich in Germany.

To begin, we first examined whether being in a leadership role brought with it any challenges of having a pre-existing friendship. This, indeed, seemed to be an issue that haunted participants, as A2 puts it: "If you get dragged off from your area and become a group leader, they shouldn't put you in front of your own men again, they should put you somewhere else".
